Editorial

Edunews is the reflection of various academic and co-curricular activities of students pursuing Honours in Education at HCDG College. The department tried its best to keep contact with students in spite of many challenges in rural area and also take steps to sustain learning of them during this pandemic time.

In conclusion, We would like to thank all colleagues and students for their enormous support throughout the whole journey.

E Learning and Online Education

The emergence of e-learning and online education during Lockdown period due to covid-19 pandemic has change the scenario of teaching-learning and evaluation system in present days. Teachers and students learns a lot about these innovative teaching technology. During this period. WhatsApp group of students of each semester were formed by teachers for transaction of contents to be taught. Classes were also taken by video conferencing through Google Meet and Zoom. Students had submitted their home assignment in Google classroom.

Despite of many problems related to communication system in this rural region such as lack of electricity, internet facility and personal android mobile phone of students, it has been noticing that most of the students tried to keep contact with teachers. They have shared same mobile with family members and peer group. Students are facilitated with pace learning and active participation in learning process through these methods of teaching.
